Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1 and 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Otsuka et al (U.S. 6,717,772). Otsuka discloses a bonding agent 61, a coating 62, and an actuator element 17 in the form of a slider rail protrusion. The protrusion is supported on a suspension 83 via a slider 10 and the bonding agent.

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 2-12 and 14-33 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

4. Response to Arguments filed 3-27-2006

Applicant argues that the adhesive layer and first carbon film of Otsuka are not equivalent to the bonding agent and coating described in the present application, and even if they were, Otsuka would still fail to describe an actuator element physically supported by and coupled to a suspension element at at least one application site of a bonding agent, the bonding agent covered by a coating application.

In response the Examiner's position remains that the adhesive film can read on the claimed bonding agent as a film playing an adhesive role reads on a bonding agent. The Examiner's position also remains that because the carbon film is coated onto the adhesive film, the carbon film can read on the claimed coating application. Finally noted that any part of the structure of Otsuka can be considered an actuator element as it forms part of a support structure of a head which in terms is attached to a rotary actuator. It is also noted that "coupled to" does not establish direct contact. There may be intervening elements such as a slider body. So the language "coupled to a suspension element at at least one application site of a bonding agent" just requires that the actuator element be coupled to a suspension element, which it is (figure 27 which shows a rotary actuator of a suspension is a prior art figure but also serves to establish that the environment in which the specific invention of Otsuka is utilized is in conjunction with a rotary actuator with a suspension), and that the coupling include at least one application site of a bonding agent covered by a coating application, which is the case.

5. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
